

GREAT MOBS

Again Gathered on Streets of Springfield

But Additional Militia's Arrival Had a Good Effect.

Remains of Negro Who Was Lynched Buried Wednesday Night—Soldiers Disperse the Crowd—An Attempt Made to Lynch a Colored Man at Carbondale, Ill., Failed.

Springfield, O., March 10.—[Bulletin.]—The mayor and General McMakin at noon today decided to have eleven companies sent away from here tonight or in the morning. Seven companies of the Second regiment will be kept here until after Saturday night. The saloons will be kept closed until after Sunday.

Springfield, O., March 10.—Officials now have complete control of the situation here. The arrival of reinforcements during the night augmented the military forces to 17 companies. Brigadier General McMakin arrived from Toledo this morning and assumed command of the entire troops. At 9 o'clock today Mayor Bowls talked by telephone with Governor Herrick and told him that everything was quiet and that there was nothing further to fear. The mayor wanted all the troops now in Springfield to remain until after the funeral of Officer Charles Collins today, when he said he would confer with General McMakin and then advise the Governor concerning the return of the troops. The grand jury will take up the lynching next Monday.

Springfield, O., March 10.—Great mobs gathered in the streets again last night and threatened to burn the remaining portion of the negro quarters. In the early part of the evening the situation was considered more threatening than at any time yet, and a race war was expected. Ten more companies of militia arrived during the evening, giving seventeen companies in all, and the presence of such a large force was sufficient to hold the mobs in check. The troops frequently had to push back the crowds at the point of the bayonet. The crowds finally dispersed late at night without doing any damage. The male negro population has fled and is supposed to be in hiding in the woods. There is some apprehension that they may make an organized attack on the town.

MILITIA DISPERSES CROWD.

Springfield, O., March 10.—At 11 o'clock the militia had dispersed the crowds in the central part of the city, but it was feared they would form elsewhere for later movements. While there are about 5,000 negroes in this city, none were seen anywhere. The demonstrations in yelling and jeering was from the crowds at the militia.

Notwithstanding reports about shipping the body of Dixon, the negro, to Kentucky, his remains were privately interred here last evening in Fern Cliff cemetery. The body was taken to the cemetery in a covered wagon and none knew of the incident except relatives and cemetery officials. The order for saloons to remain closed is observed, but no attention is paid to the mayors' proclamation for people to keep from congregating or remaining off the streets.

STATE OF FRENZY

Many Animals Sacrificed and Blood Sprinkled Around the Church by Excited People Who Belong to the Holiness Society.

Bangor, Me., March 10.—Five hundred people on Bear's Island, near Jonesport, belonging to the Holiness society are now in a state of religious frenzy. One man who rowed over from the island to Jonesport said that preparations were being made to kill numerous children as a sacrifice, the parents believing they had power to

It is thought that hundreds of negroes are out in the woods around the city, as they cannot be found within the limits. No women or children are forced to remain out over night, as the crowds threaten only males. There are two or three among what are called "bad negroes" that are said to be wanted by the crowds and the negroes fear others are wanted.

Telegrams are being received by negroes from their fellows in other states offering help. The pastor of a colored church in Kansas City wired to a pastor here:

"If you want any aid from Kansas, call on us. We are prepared to come to your rescue."

The colored people here are now afraid to be seen getting telegrams or mail. When the west end of "the levee" was cleaned out no white man would work with the moving vans and no white men would accept the goods in storage. The work had to be done by colored men under guard of the militia and most of the goods from the dismantled stores are piled up in the open yards of colored people. None could be left on the premises of white people, who feared that their own property would thus be endangered. None of the hardware stores are allowed to sell weapons or ammunition. The infirmaries and other places of refuge are filled with aged negroes and women and children whose male members of the families have taken to the woods and it is now feared that there will yet be a mobilization in the adjoining forest that may make a dangerous march on the city.

Colonel Mead, of Dayton, is holding the city under strong military rule. He will be superceded today by General McMakin, of Toledo, when there will be seventeen companies of the militia here.

An outbreak occurred at 11 o'clock in Short Winter street, a thoroughfare only two squares in length and inhabited by both blacks and whites. A half dozen resorts, mostly white, are located here, and at 11 o'clock five shots, aimed at a colored man, were the occasion of three companies of militia being dispatched post haste to the scene of the disturbance.

Earlier in the night crowds varying from 500 to 600 jeered and hooted the soldiers and it frequently became necessary for the troops to push the rioters back at the point of the bayonet.

NO LYNCHING HERE

Carbondale, Ill., March 10.—A mob from this city last night made an attack upon the county jail at Murphysboro in an effort to secure a negro who had attempted to criminally assault a school teacher. The would-be lynchers met with determined resistance and failed in their purpose, twelve of them being placed under arrest.

REPORT

That Mr. Chamberlain Has an Incurable Mental Affliction.

London, March 10.—The Times this morning says: "Considerable anxiety regarding Mr. Chamberlain's condition is being manifested on account of the circulation of reports of members of the House of Commons that he is suffering from an incurable mental affliction. It was whispered about yesterday that Mr. Chamberlain was in the incipient stages of softening of the brain. Where this report originated could not be learned nor was it possible to obtain information confirming the report or destructive of it."

RADIUM

Price Has Jumped to Over Twelve Millions Per Pound.

New York, March 10.—Announcement has been made that the price of radium has increased $4,200,000 a pound in the last two days and may go higher. The market price last week was $8,400,000, and now it is $12,600,000. By April 1 it is said, it may be impossible to buy it at any price. L. D. Gardner, an importer of radium said: "Bohemia has forbidden the exportation of pitchblend, because the government discovered that this industry was interfering with the Bohemian glass industry. That edict prohibits the radium manufacturers in Paris and Hamburg from obtaining the uranium ore and thus until new discoveries are made, there will be no more radium made. This will stimulate American prospectors in the western states."

GASOLINE

Exploded, Killing Four Railway Employees Near Harrisburg, Penn., Thursday Morning.

Harrisburg, March 10.—Four railroad employees, names unknown, were incinerated in a box car containing gasoline which caught fire at Branch intersection, 19 miles east of here today. Two other men were badly burned. The Pennsylvania road had sent 26 men out to Bainbridge to clear the tracks of ice. The men were traveling in a box car and were all asleep when a spark ignited one of the five barrels of gasoline in the car.

APPEAL

To the Colored People of Springfield to Desist From Further Demonstration There.

Springfield, O., March 10.—Yorick W. Smith, colored, of Cincinnati, arrived here today and circulated a written appeal among the colored people to desist from further demonstrations. Six houses on Central alley and Summer street, occupied by negroes, were vacated by the police today, owing to threats against them. Several hundred negroes who spent the night in Snyder's woods wandered to town this morning. They said they kept warm with bonfires. No women or children were with them.

City Solicitor Stewart Tatum is preparing a public statement denouncing the work of the mob. Tatum says the city cannot be held liable for damage committed by the mob, but the county is liable for the payment of $5,000 damages to the relatives of Dickinson.

JAPAN

Is Reported to Have Won Victory

OVER RUSSIANS IN BATTLE IN KOREA.

Martial Law is Proclaimed in Siberian Districts.

CHINESE MOUNTING SIEGE GUNS.

Direct Advice Received From Vladivostok Do Not Mention a Naval Engagement There.

London, March 10.—The report received in London yesterday from Chifu and by telegraph this morning from Tien-Tsin to the effect that the Japanese had occupied Feng-Wang Cheng, half way along the road from Antung to Liao Yang, has not been confirmed from any other sources. If the reports are true, they indicate that the Russian advance along the Yalu river has been cut off, that the railroad between Mukden and Niuchang is opened and the isolation of Port Arthur is a daily possibility. The reports are believed to be true here.

London, March 10.—A dispatch to The Times from Wei-Hai-Wei, dated March 9, says:

"It is reported on good authority that a collision between Japanese and Russian troops has occurred near Hailin, Korea, 54 miles northwest of Chemulpo, which resulted in the defeat of the Russians."

MOUNTING GUNS.

Yin Kow, March 10.—The families of Russian officials have departed. Siege and field guns are being mounted on the Chinese fort on the east bank of the Liao river.

General Kondratovich is to arrive today. He will establish the headquarters of his five regiments at New Chwang.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—A ukase issued today proclaims martial law in various districts of Siberia, parts of the Trans-Baikal district along the Lake Balkal railway and all branch railways to the far East. Offenders will be subject to summary military punishment.

VLADIVOSTOK QUIET.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—Direct advices from Vladivostok timed 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon do not mention a naval engagement.

PRESIDENT'S ORDER.

Washington, March 10.—The President today issued the following executive order: "All officials of the government, civil, military and naval, are hereby directed not only to observe the President's proclamation of neutrality in the pending war between Russia and Japan, but also abstain from either action or speech which can legitimately cause irritation to either of the combatants."

Washington, March 10.—Russia having formally granted permission for four United States army officers to accompany her land forces in the war with Japan, Lieutenant General Chaffee assigned to this duty the following officers now in the Philippines: Major W. W. Gibson, Ordnance corps; Captain W. V. Jackson, Engineer corps; Captain George G. Guley, Artillery corps; Captain Carl Reichmann, Seventeenth infantry.

ATTACK ON VLADIVOSTOK.

Tokio, March 10.—[Bulletin.]—Admiral Kamura has sent the following report of the Japanese attack on Vladivostok on Sunday last:

"The attack on Vladivostok on March 6 began at 10 in the afternoon and lasted for 40 minutes. I believe the bombardment was effective and demoralized the enemy, as the Russian forts did not reply. Japanese cruisers subsequently reconnoitered

FLOODS

In Pennsylvania and New Jersey Do Great Damage.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 10.—Great floods prevail in central and eastern Pennsylvania, and in portions of New Jersey. The breaking of an ice gorge above the town of Port Jarvis, N. J., suddenly inundated the town, and pedestrians on the streets were compelled to wade shoulder deep in order to escape. With a solid gorge of 33 miles below the place, and another jam up stream, it is feared the latter may give way at any moment and work great destruction. Wilkesbarre, Pa., is submerged and cut off from outside communication, and thousands of men are thrown out of work. Many other cities and towns are suffering severely.

Sunbury, Pa., March 10.—The Susquehanna river here this morning overflowed its banks owing to ice gorge breaking between Northumberland and Danville and many homes in the lowlands were flooded compelling people to flee to the hills.

The river began falling at 9:45 today. It is now free of ice as far as Catawissa.

ATTEMPT

To Kill a Horse Almost Resulted in Man's Death

Central, Wis., March 10.—In an attempt to kill an aged horse, John Eckert a farmer, had a miraculous escape from being blown to death. Desiring to see the horse die he attached a piece of dynamite to the horse's neck by a string. He then touched off the fuse with a match and started to run. Instead of standing still, the animal started to follow its owner. Eckert finally reached a wire fence, through which he crawled. A moment later, with Eckert two rods away, the dynamite exploded. The shock knocked the man down, but did not hurt him seriously. The horse was blown to atoms.

EXECUTIVE

SESSION IN THE REED SMOOT CASE AT WASHINGTON.

Unprintable Testimony Is Presented—Several Witnesses Who Are Excluded Return to Utah.

Washington, March 10.—Several officials of the Mormon church testified in the Senator Reed Smoot case before the senate committee on privileges and elections, they had plural wives and had continued polygamous cohabitation since the manifesto of 1890. Just before adjournment for the day the committee held an executive session for the purpose of having read the unprintable testimony in the Teasdale divorce case. The prosecution stated that it had no more witnesses to put on the stand on account of the failure of several summoned officials of the Mormon church to appear.

President Joseph F. Smith was asked to use his influence with the witnesses and promised to get into communication with them if it was possible to do so. Loren Harmer, formerly a bishop of the Mormon church, gave the first testimony in favor of the defense that has been offered in the eight days of the hearing. He said he was convicted of the crime of adultery and that he believed Reed Smoot was responsible for his arrest. The charge against Harmer was unlawful cohabitation with a woman who was not his wife and not a prosecution on account of cohabitation with his plural wives.

President Joseph F. Smith and a number of officials of the church who have been witnesses in the case were excused from further attendance and they will return to Utah.

DUNN CAPTURED

Newark Man Who is to Die on Scaffold Friday

Is Now Suffering From Pneumonia and is Delirious.

Jail Physician Says Dunn Would Die a Natural Death in Two or Three Days But Law May Be Executed Notwithstanding the Fact.

A special telegram to the Advocate from St. Joseph, Mo., Thursday morning brings the news that Mark Dunn, the former Newark man, who escaped from jail last Monday, has been recaptured and will be hanged Friday morning for the murder of Albert Fenton.

The dispatch follows: Mark Dunn, the murderer who was sentenced to be hanged here Friday, and who escaped Monday last, sought food and medicine at the home of James Finchett, a farmer near Rosendale, Mo., yesterday. He has pneumonia. He was kept under guard until last night at 8 o'clock, when he again escaped, heavily armed, and said he would never be taken alive. Sheriff Spencer of St. Joseph, and a posse at once went in pursuit. Dunn formerly lived in Newark, Ohio, but came west in 1881. Later last night Dunn was captured at Gilford, Mo., and was brought back to St. Joseph, where he will be hanged Friday morning.

At noon the following Scripps-McRae press telegram to The Advocate brought further details of Dunn's capture:

St. Joseph, Mo., March 10.—Mark Dunn, condemned murderer of Bert Fenton, sentenced to be hanged tomorrow, who made a sensational escape from the county jail here Monday morning, was captured near Rosendale, Mo., by James Finchett, Wednesday. At 8 o'clock last night Dunn again escaped, but at 11 o'clock was again captured at Gilford, Mo., and taken to St. Joseph this morning. Dunn was carried from the train to a carriage on a stretcher. He was highly delirious with pneumonia. The work on the scaffold, which was stopped when Dunn made his sensational escape Monday, was resumed this morning, and unless pneumonia carries off the prisoner he will hang tomorrow forenoon. Dr. Walker, jail physician, said this morning that Dunn will die a natural death in two or three days if he does not die sooner. The officials have no alternative but to execute the law.

BRIDE DESERTS HUSBAND

Because He Had Previously Been Divorced Thus Adding Another Chapter to Her Matrimonial Misadventures in Indiana.

Marion, Ind., March 10.—Miss Mary Lithgo of this city, has added another chapter to her already strange matrimonial misadventures.

Some years ago she was deserted at the altar by the man who had promised to wed her, and in honor of which event nearly 500 guests had assembled. On Tuesday she herself, deserted the man she had married, three hours after the ceremony had been performed by Rev. Father Mayer.

The man she left so summarily is James Price, who is connected with the American Tin Plate company's plant in Gas City.

At the time Price became engaged to Miss Lithgo he was a member of the Episcopal church, but, as she is a Roman Catholic, he renounced his former faith and espoused hers. Rev. Father Julian Mayer, in charge of the Gas City diocese, investigated the standing and character of Price and conducted the marriage according to the Catholic ritual. Price erected a pretty little cottage in Gas City for his bride and furnished it lavishly.

The wedding occurred at high noon in the Roman Catholic church in Gas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Price and the wedding party went to the new home prepared by Price. The wedding dinner was eaten and the wedding party was celebrating the event, when the members of the party were shocked by the announcement that the bride had deserted her husband. Three hours after the ceremony was performed Price acknowledged that he had a wife living in Pittsburg, from whom he had been divorced and that she had again married. Father Mayer declared that the ceremony performed by him was illegal, according to the rules of the Catholic church and that no marriage had occurred. Mrs. Price immediately left the house in company with her father and her second wedding party was left in gloom.

Father Mayer said, in discussing the matter: "The fact that Price has a living wife is the reason the marriage ceremony was invalid."

THE W. C. T. U.

The meeting on Tuesday was opened by singing and prayer. Mrs. Keller led the devotionals and read the 29th chapter of Psalms and commented on the same.

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Upham, the vice president, filled the chair in a very agreeable manner.

Responsive readings were the order of the day and the subject was, "The Cigarette Problem." The readings were led by Mrs. Rachel Anderson and a lively discussion followed. A few notes taken from the readings were as follows:

John Wanamaker says: "The cigarette is the starting point in the downfall of thousands who fall into its clutches and eventually drift away from all sense of morality."

Dr. Russell Broughton says: "The heart beat of a boy twelve years old is increased in frequency fully twenty per cent with a corresponding irregular action by smoking one average cigarette."

The business men are taking a stand against the cigarette vice because they find the boy smoker less active, less alert and less reliable than the non-smoker. Many merchants and other firms refuse to employ the boy who uses the cigarette.

Several of the railroads have issued orders to the same effect. The Rock Island was the first to take this step. The manager said, "In my judgment, it is impossible for cigarette smokers to make good railroad men."

Another important matter is now before the union and takes in all good temperance people. The letter sent out reads as follows:

"Our bill--Senate Bill No. 122--to enable women to vote at local option elections, was introduced by Senator Bruce, of Ironton, and was referred to the judiciary committee. The members of that committee are: Hon. James W. Stewart, Charles C. Connell, Joseph C. Heinlein, George H. Chambers, S. H. West, William W. Chapman, Norman F. Overturf, Alfred C. Cassett, J. M. Shallenberger, Thomas H. Ricketts, Elza Carter, Orla E. Harrison and Louis B. Houck. We earnestly urge you to get leading men and women in your community to send letters (special delivery letters are best) to the senator from your district, asking his support of the bill, and if he is a member of the committee, ask him to vote for a favorable and early report on it. We are in this fight to win, but to do so we must have the enthusiastic support of the whole organization of our friends."

Let every temperance man and woman, referring to the above request, write to the senators from Licking county. Their names are Dr. C. D. Watkins and N. F. Overturf.

The meeting adjourned to meet next Tuesday afternoon at the First M. E. church.

A QUESTION OF CHARITY

[Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure.]

Thousands of dainty lanterns, half hidden among the branches of the trees or swinging merrily on invisible wires, flooded the place with soft light. There were long tables, over which presided young women in white, who strove to sell you all sorts of dainty, impossible things; a tent where an occasional-made gypsy told your fortune; a lottery with prizes ranging from peanuts to a French doll; a refreshment bar where the only change from your proffered bill was a surfeit of gratitude and an engaging smile. Well down the lawn, behind an impromptu screen of potted plants, an amateur orchestra was struggling--heroically, at least--with classic overtures.

For something over half an hour Mr. Robert Weston had been wandering about, making most reckless purchases at the tables and playing the lottery with all the abandon of a born plunger. To all appearances his course about the place was very like that of a ship without a rudder. Yet there was method in his madness, and all the time he was being outrageously swindled; at the various booths, from the corner of his eye he was watching for a certain white dress and a crown of copper colored hair. Presently his patience was rewarded. Far down toward the palm screen he saw her sink into a lawn chair. He deposited his bundles in an undignified heap on a neighboring table and made his way to the lawn chair.

"Nan," he said gravely as he came up to her, "you're tired to death, poor child."

"Oh, no," she said. "Only I'll be glad when it's all over."

"Come away from it for awhile," he advised. "I'll take you down to the boathouse."

She rose and slipped her hand through his arm. Together they descended the slope to the river and went out to the end of the little pier by the boathouse, where they sat down on a rustic bench.

"Well," Weston said, "was it a success?"

"It would be if everybody spends money as recklessly as you have been doing," she replied.

He laughed. "I was particularly fortunate in the lottery," he explained. "I drew four bags of peanuts, a doll and a box of hairpins. My last purchase was three aprons and a half dozen flannel holders. Imagine it," he chuckled.

"Anyway," she said, "you've done your best to help us out. You're a dear, good boy."

"Ah," he said solemnly, "I knew I should be discovered some time."

"Tell me, Nan, what this is for," he went on after a pause, "prayer books for the Eskimos or blankets for the Fiji Islanders?"

"The money goes to St. Agatha's Home for Orphans and Foundlings. We support it mainly," she explained.

"H-m-m," he mused. "Don't suppose you ever see the 'orphans and foundlings' do you? Just turn over the money to 'em and let it go at that, eh? Say, Nan," he said, with a sudden seriousness which rather surprised her, "I don't believe all this giving money to charity is the best way of doing it. There are plenty of old moneybags trying to buy a chance to heaven who'll look out for that end of it. I say, for those who are fitted for it, personal work among the needy is the most practical thing."

"Perhaps a few details would make your suggestion more explicit, Bobby," she said.

"Undoubtedly," he assented cheerfully. "Now, for instance, take a case I know about. There's an orphan, and he's cold and hungry and lonesome. It isn't so much money he needs as some one to take an interest in him, to stand behind him, as it were. You see, they won't take him into a home."

"Why not?" she interrupted.

"Well," he said slowly, "to begin with, his age--"

"What is his age?"

"Thirty-one."

"Gracious! I should say he wouldn't get into a home. The age limit at St. Agatha's is fifteen. Thirty-one!"

"I realize it's a crime for him to be thirty-one," he said. "Still, that really isn't his fault."

"What's the matter with him?" she asked sharply. "Doesn't he work? Is he lazy?"

"The laziest rascal alive," he said. "But he really doesn't have to work, you know. He's got money enough, as far as that goes--keeps a horse or so and an automobile. When I said he was cold and hungry I meant he was cold for lack of interest and hungry for sympathy and--oh, hang it. You know well enough what I mean. The orphan is me." He burst out ungrammatically. "And--and--for heaven's sake, don't send all your charity to St. Agatha's, but save a little for the lone some thirty-one-year-old orphan."

"Bobby," she said severely, "you're proposing again, and you promised me you wouldn't--not for a year."

"An ability to tell the truth never did run in our family," he said dismissively. "I assure you, I won't offend in the proposal line again, however."

"No, I don't think you will," she said, laughing.

Something in her eyes made him suddenly shift an arm about her and draw her close to him.

"What makes you so sure?" he asked very gently.

"I've been thinking it all over, and I've concluded that charity--now, Bobby, let me go. And you stand over there by the rail. Yes, that's right. I've concluded that charity begins at home."

JOHN BARTON OXFORD.

KATHERINE

[Original.]

In merry England several centuries ago there lived a young girl who, though she belonged to the most aristocratic family in England, was not brought up with proper care. Her mother died when Katherine was in early childhood, and she was turned over to an old dowager duchess. In the duchess's splendid mansion she was left with the waiting women and occupied the sleeping apartments common to them all. Here temptation was thrown in her way, especially by two of these women, Dorothy Berwick and Mary Lassells. The former led the little girl just coming to womanhood into an intrigue with her music teacher, Henry Manox, while Mary Lassells led her into another with Francis Derham, a member of the household troop of Katherine's uncle, a powerful duke.

Derham succeeded in persuading Katherine to become betrothed to him. A troth plight, as it was called in those days, was equivalent to a marriage and so recognized by the church. Derham called her "wife," and she called him "husband." In time this relationship was discovered by the dowager duchess, who, after giving Katherine a beating, placed her under duress. The matter was hushed up; the women who had fostered the intimacy were sent away, while Derham fled from the blight he had brought upon one of the noblest families in England, escaping to Ireland. There he shipped with pirates.

Katherine had only now reached womanhood and, having been freed from her evil associates, became remarkable for her modest and maidenly deportment. Derham returned and endeavored to renew his intimacy with her, but Katherine would have nothing to do with him.

Reports of Katherine's attractions spread till they reached the court. Her family, indeed her relationship by blood to the royal house of England, rendered her fully eligible to an appointment in the royal service, and she was made maid of honor to the queen. The king noticed and admired her. Then he began to pay her attention, and she became the queen's rival. At last the queen was divorced, and Katherine became queen of England.

Meanwhile Derham had vanished, while Dorothy Berwick, Mary Lassells and the others who had known of Katherine's temptations and their results were scattered. But no sooner was it known that she was to become queen than these birds of prey began to hover over the woman they had ruined as a child. One of the women wrote her demanding to be taken into her service, and Katherine did not dare refuse her. Manox, who had first tampered with her, became one of the royal musicians, and the terrible cord that was drawing about her was at last knotted by Derham's receiving an appointment in her suit.

Mysterious reports about the queen's past life began to be circulated, but the king, who was desperately in love with her, either did not hear or ignored them. In those days Catholic and Protestant were struggling for the mastery, and it was not possible that any scandal about the queen should escape the opposite party. Mary Lassells revealed the whole matter, and the king's confidential minister informed his majesty of the facts. He at first treated the accusation as a calumny designed for the destruction of the queen. Nevertheless he could not rest in doubt and took steps to know the truth. Derham was arrested on a charge of piracy. He acknowledged the truth of the years before and that he and Katherine had lived as man and wife, but denied the slightest familiarity between them since her marriage with the king.

Derham's confession pierced the king to the heart and was the queen's death warrant. Katherine was made a prisoner, her household discharged and her glory taken from her. The king, who loved her devotedly, would have been glad to save her life, but there were reasons why it was not to her interest or to the interest of the realm. These reasons were magnified by those who were striving to get rid of one who had supplanted a former queen and was of a different religion. The king in his desire to save her from the block endeavored to force her to acknowledge her precontract with Derham, for the Church of Rome allowed no divorce except in precontract. But Katherine would not admit this troth plight, and, since she could not be divorced, there was no way of severing her matrimonial status except by execution.

Katherine was transferred to the Tower of London, that prison of so many political offenders and objects of the displeasure of the sovereign. Two days after the royal assent to her execution she was led to the scaffold. There was great dissatisfaction on the part of the people at her illegal execution, for even in these barbarous days the laws of England provided that no one should be put to death without a fair and open trial, which had been denied Katherine. She was led like a sheep to the slaughter without being permitted to make any defense. She submitted to the headman's stroke with meekness and courage.

Many others suffered a like fate, but none so well deserved as Derham, who was hanged and quartered.

Such is the story of Katherine Howard, Henry VIII's fifth queen. No more touching example, certainly no more notable one, of the consequences of being unprotected from evil influences, has ever been enacted. The facts as laid down in this brief sketch have been taken from history, not an incident having been changed nor one added. The story is a subject for a great moral drama and worthy of a genius in the handling.

WHAT'S IN A SHADOW?

[Original.]

"A shadow," said the lecturer, "is something formed from the interposition--"

"Beg pardon, professor," interrupted the facetious student. "A shadow is nothing."

The class tittered, while the professor cast a provoked glance at the facetious student. Controlling himself, however, he paused a moment to consider how he should meet the interruption. Technically the student was right, but he was hypercritical. He had taken a like course several times before, and the professor desired to put a stop to his interruptions.

"You think that a shadow is nothing," he said, addressing the class, while looking at the facetious student. "I think I can demonstrate that a shadow may be something fraught even with life and death. Some years ago I was traveling in the far west, where things are not done as we do them here, and strolling through the central square of a small town I came upon a gallows. A crowd was collecting, and upon inquiry I learned that a murderer was to be hanged at noon. I did not remain to witness the hanging, but on going back to the hotel I asked the landlord something about the culprit and his crime. This is what he told me:

"Some months previous a house had been entered, an old man who lived there alone murdered, his tin box where he kept his valuables rifled and his money taken. There had evidently been a struggle, and spots of blood appeared here and there on the furniture. A careful examination of the marks on the box was made, resulting in the discovery by the blood stains on it that the index finger of the right hand of the murderer was missing. But that was all the headway made in the case for some months. Everybody for miles around knew that a murderer was on the watch for such a person.

"One night about 10 o'clock a woman was sitting before embers on a fireplace dozing. Behind her on a table was a bright light, before her a white wall. Opening her eyes, she saw on the wall the shadow of a man. He stood still for a moment; then, raising his right hand, in which he held a knife pointing downward, he began to advance without noise. One thing was noticeable--there was something wanting in the shadow of the thumb and forefinger. If you will make such a shadow, you will see that in that position it will show the forefinger a protuberance. The woman noticed there was no such protuberance. The handle of the knife took its place, but did not completely fill it. At any rate, there was a difference. No more remarkable instance of coolness than that of this woman threatened with instant death is on record.

"Sarah!" she called in a perfectly controlled voice to a servant in the kitchen.

"The shadow retreated. Probably the man stepped into the hall. Sarah came in, and her mistress said to her:

"I have some bills to pay tomorrow morning and some purchases to make. There's not a cent of money in the house. I wish you to take a note to my brother and ask him to let me have $50, which amount I will draw from the bank tomorrow and send it to his office. Stop; he will not give it without the order. I will write one. Hand me my writing case."

"The servant did as she was directed, and the woman wrote the note, reading it over aloud carefully to make sure that she had made herself plain and that the servant understood what she was to do. Then the latter left the house.

"For five minutes by the clock on the mantel the woman sat perfectly still. She could not be sure that her plan would succeed. She must take her chances on its succeeding without an effort to determine whether it had or not. After five minutes, not seeing the shadow reappear, she got up and went out the front door to the next house, where she sent a messenger to the police station with the following note:

"The three fingered murderer came just now to my house to murder and rob me. I sent my servant with a note to my brother living on the Hilton road for $50. The murderer heard me tell her what to do. He will follow her and on her return will rob her."

"The police were out at once, followed the girl and saw her enter the house where she was to get the money. One of their number entered, dressed himself in the servant's clothes and started back as if to deliver the money. From behind a bush a man sprang up and called out, 'Your money or your life!' at the same time covering the supposed servant with a revolver. Instead of complying he sounded a sharp whistle. It was needless, however, for the police were in touch and in an instant had the robber handcuffed. His right hand was found to be minus the index finger. There was absolutely no other testimony to convict him of the murder committed some months before, but this bit of circumstantial evidence was sufficient. The shadow of the forefinger--"

"Wrong again, professor," interrupted the facetious student. "It was the absence of shadow."

"You are incorrigible," said the professor, smiling. "What can't be cured must be endured."

The class, the facetious student and the teacher all laughed together, and the latter proceeded with his discourse. But the interrupter never offered again. He had no desire to do so, and he knew the class would cry him down if he did.

HENRY R. SHOENBERGER.

A BASHFUL COUPLE

[Original.]

"What's the matter with our little Polly, Sarah?"

"I don't know, John."

"She looks sad all the while. Perhaps she misses the society of young people. It's hard on a girl of her age to be shut up with her grandparents. Besides, she's of an age when I fancy young girls ought to have a lover."

"I wonder if she has anything on her mind."

"It's my thinking she's unconscious of the true cause--the natural yearning for husband and children."

"Polly's always been backward in encouraging young men."

"We'll have to give her more opportunity to mingle with them. In that way her bashfulness will gradually wear off."

The next day grandma announced to Polly that she might invite Edward Dwight, a young midshipman from the Naval academy home on leave, to tea. Polly colored at the mention of such a thing.

"Oh, grandma!" she exclaimed.

"Well, what is it, Polly?"

"Do you really think we'd better invite him to tea?"

"Certainly. Why not, child?"

"Oh, I don't know. I'll think about it."

"John," said grandma that evening to her husband, "I never in my life saw a girl so timid about meeting one of the opposite sex as Polly. I've told her to invite the midshipman to tea, but I'm afraid she'll never have the courage to do so."

"Don't force her, Sarah."

However, the invitation was given and accepted. Young Dwight appeared on the evening in question and sat talking with grandma while supper was being prepared. He was somewhat incoherent in his remarks and replies, and the old man thought him as easily embarrassed as Polly. Then they all went in to supper, and under the influence of the hot biscuit, cream potatoes, thin slices of ham and a salad, re-enforced by the grandparents' efforts to make the young people feel easy in each other's company, all was going well, when grandma made a bad slip of the tongue. She was dreaming of the time when her dear little Polly might be the wife of an admiral, and in the midst of her reverie, having occasion to speak to Polly, called her Mrs. Dwight.

Had a 2,000 pound projectile been exploded on the deck of a man-of-war it could not have created as much consternation as this blunder produced upon the young people. The midshipman turned white, the girl red, while grandma and grandpa may be said to have looked blue. Grandpa saw the midshipman dart a glance at Polly, half angry, half surprised. What it meant the old man could not explain, but he took it to mean that Dwight had no fancy for matrimony, which, considering his youth and condition, was not surprising.

There was no comfort at table after the fatal blunder, and grandma, who had caused it all, had the adroitness to leave out the cake and preserves, which had been intended for a last course, and, rising from the table, led the way to the drawing room. But grandpa found something to take him out to the barn, and grandma found it necessary to interview the servants. The young couple were left sitting on opposite sides of the room, and grandma could have bitten off her tongue at having spoiled an incipient affair between a boy and a girl. She wished she could have left them not so far apart, but did not dare risk any more blunders by trying to bring them together. She was busy for some time about household matters, and grandpa was talking to a neighbor. Then grandpa came in, and the old couple went upstairs.

"The young fellow don't seem to be in a hurry to go," remarked grandpa at 9 o'clock.

"Hasn't he gone?" replied grandma. "I thought I heard the gate click some time ago."

"I don't know. Perhaps we'd better go down and see."

They went together softly downstairs. All was still in the drawing room. The door was shut, but if there had been an ordinary conversation between two people it could have been heard in the hall. The old couple listened for a moment; then grandpa remarked that he reckoned the room was empty. He opened the door.

Wonder of wonders! There sat Polly on the midshipman's lap and in the midshipman's arms.

Polly sprang up, and Dwight, rising, stood looking with a mingling of sheepishness, assurance, conscious pride and happiness. Then he spoke out like the little man he was:

"This can go on no longer. Polly and I have been married for a month. If it is known, I'll be shipped from the academy, for no undergraduate is allowed to be married. If you good people will keep our secret all will come out right. I graduate in the coming June and will then be an officer in the United States navy. If you object to me as a husband for Polly, I shall blame myself; if not, I shall be glad for what I've done."

By this time the old people had somewhat recovered from their surprise. Grandpa seized the boy's hand and Polly flew into grandma's arms.

"John," said the old lady before they went to bed, "how do you suppose they found the times and places to meet?"

"Don't know, Sarah. Reckon it runs in the blood. Do you remember how you met me every few days for two months without your parents knowing anything about it?"

"To tell," replied grandma meditatively. "Its astonishing how things keep succeeding one another the same way."

Womanly Health, Strength and Beauty

Strength and beauty in woman depend entirely upon her health. A woman cannot be healthy if suffering from one or more of the many ailments peculiar to her sex. These ailments invariably cause, sooner or later, the loss of her symmetry of form and freshness of complexion.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA Herb Tea

Makes Strong and Beautiful Women.

It is a most pleasant and effective remedy for the troubles which cause suffering among women the world over. It relieves immediately and eventually cures all cases of disordered menstruation, female weakness, proleptus, chronic constipation, sick head, dizziness, nervousness, and sleeplessness. These are the ailments which deprive a woman of her youth and beauty and make her old before her time. The use of the Herb Tea will enable her to retain these qualities. It clears the complexion and improves the form. A cupful at bed time will give a woman health and strength.

Chicago, April 19, 1903.

Remains Wizard Oil Co., Chicago, Ill. 12 a. m. to 12 p. m. My wife had been suffering with female weakness and extreme nervousness which latter the physician who had been attending her for a long time attributed to her being unable to sleep. After taking about eight nights of your Herb Tea she was able to get a good night's sleep. The doctor seemed to be able to do nothing for her and she was constantly getting worse. She decided to try your Herb Tea and drank a cupful before retiring. In the morning she arose after a good night's sleep. The use of the Herb Tea for the first time in months. She has continued taking it during the past three months and has forgotten what it is to feel nervous and sleepless. She is feeling splendid and every one remarks how well she is looking. Her complexion is as clear as a young girl's and her figure has improved wonderfully.

MARY CARRIER RHODES.

Mary, daughter of Henry and Martha Carrier, was born in Rockingham county, Virginia, Nov. 3, 1820, and died Feb. 25, 1904, at the age of 83 years, 3 months and 22 days. She was married to Cassel Rhodes Oct. 15, 1836. This same year she moved with her husband to Utica, Licking county, Ohio. She lived nearly fifty years about one and one-half miles west of Highwater, from which she was taken for her burial. The funeral services were held at Liberty church, and were conducted by Rev. Mr. Davis.

She was the mother of fourteen children. Two of these died in infancy, and three died in young manhood. Nine children, six daughters and three sons survive to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. They are Milton W. Rhodes, Mrs. Osborn and Mrs. Bliss of Illinois, Wesley A. and George Rhodes of Salt Lake City, Utah, Mrs. Powers of Indiana, Mrs. Gosnell of New Waver, O., Mrs. Peckard of Newark, O., and Miss Kate Rhodes, who resided with her mother.

Her husband preceded her to the better land in 1875. In early life she became a member of the Methodist church and later joined the Christian Union church, of which she continued a member until her death. During the past two years the infirmities of old age have increased rapidly upon her. With the end of her life approaching she seemed the more to rely upon God. She gave clear evidence upon her death bed of a hope of the future life and a confident expectation of meeting friends in the better land. Dearest mother thou has left us, Here thy loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God that has bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal. Dear is the spot where Christians sleep, And sweet the strain which angels pour; O, why should we in anguish weep? They are not lost—but gone before.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

The meeting of the members of the Democratic Central and Executive committees Wednesday evening in the Mayor's office, resulted in adjournment, without any definite action being taken regarding the method of nominating candidates for various minor offices, which will be filled by election this spring unless the Chapman bill, abolishing spring elections, becomes a law within the next few days.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Wayne Collier, Frank Connel acting in his capacity of secretary.

Brief addresses were made by City Solicitor Phil Smythe, J. H. Newton, and J. W. Rutledge regarding the best method of nominating candidates and the probability of the passage of the measure abolishing spring elections.

It was decided to adjourn until Friday evening when more definite action may have been taken in the Legislature regarding the Chapman bill.

The story that the Japanese fleet at Vladivostok was covered with ice, and that the Japanese have had great difficulty in landing their troops in Northern Korea because of the same material, indicates that General Winter is playing a very strong hand in delaying all military operations in the far East, and that until he releases his grip we cannot expect the respective armies to get at each other's throats in true bulldog fashion.

President Roosevelt is not disposed to get along amiably with Republican politicians unless he comes across one with the stiff and stubborn grain of the late Mark Hanna, and they are difficult to meet and are not on the bargain counter. The President's purpose to divide honors between Senator Platt and Governor Odell has come to grief. They will not work in the same traces, and Odell has declared his purpose to boss New York politics, throwing the Senator to one side as a useless quantity. He demands supreme control of New York politics, a post of honor heretofore held by Platt. The President desires to mix in himself in the bossing business, hence there is trouble with Odell. He refused a few days ago to keep an appointment with Roosevelt at Washington to deal with the appointment of National delegates from New York and the distribution of State patronage.

SPRING
ELECTIONS WILL BE ABOLISHED BY THE LEGISLATURE.

Merry Fight on In House, But Only a Few Republicans Bolt Wednesday Night's Caucus.

Columbus, O., March 10.—3:10 p. m.—The Chapman bill to abolish spring elections, which passed the Senate recently, was up in the House this afternoon at 3 o'clock on special order. The debate opened and a merry fight is on. The indications are that a half dozen Republicans will bolt the caucus and will vote with the Democrats. The bill, however, will be passed late this afternoon by a substantial majority.

At 2:30 this afternoon the House passed the Ricketts amendment by a vote of 72 to 31, twelve Republicans voting with the Democrats. The Ricketts amendment provides for a constitutional amendment for local elections and state elections to be held on alternate years.

CHAPMAN BILL INDORSED

Columbus, O., March 10.—The adoption of the Ricketts constitutional amendment and the passage of the Chapman election bill yesterday was assured last night by the action of the caucus of the Republican members of the house.

Fifty-eight of the 88 Republicans of the house unanimously indorsed the measures. Three votes were cast against the proposition, but when it carried so overwhelmingly one of them moved to make it unanimous.

Senator Dick and Governor Herrick both worked like beavers all of yesterday, lining up the house members for the bills, thus indisputably stamping them as administrative measures. It was claimed last night that 72 votes were pledged for them.

The absence of 30 members from the caucus is not regarded as significant. Probably not to exceed 15 of that number are really opposed to the measure. Other causes kept the remainder away.

LOCAL OPTION BILL.

Columbus, O., March 10.—The house temperance committee will report favorably today the Brannock ward local option bill amended to read by districts instead of wards. Maximum districts shall comprise not more than 5,000 qualified electors, minimum districts not less than 300. Where half of any block is occupied by business houses the district shall be exempt. Only registered voters may sign the petitions for elections, 40 per cent of those residing in any district being necessary.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

Columbus, O., March 10.—The senate Wednesday amended the Harris bill, appropriating $1,251,000 for the support of the common schools of Ohio for the years 1904 and 1905; to appropriate $2,125,500, at the rate of $1.70 for each enumerated school youth in the state, for the year 1904. This means that another bill must be introduced to make the appropriation for the year 1905.

Senator Harris in advocacy of his bill, declared that the measure was drafted in compliance with the party policy which was pledged to a reduction of the state levy from 1.35 to 1.20. The appropriation provided herein, he said, gave a pro rata of $1.70 for each enumerated school youth in Ohio, more than the common school fund had carried in the past decade.

By the big vote of 72 to 60 the house put to sleep the Crawford bill to require a medicine bottle to be labeled with the list of ingredients.

Dr. Crawford stated that the committee amendment changing "formula" to "ingredient" had modified the bill, but Huey of Columbiana and others attacked it.

An amendment to require doctors to give the names of ingredients of prescriptions was voted down also.

Without a word of debate and preceded only by a call of the house to insure the presence of enough members, Representative Chisholm, of Cleveland, brought the race track pool bill to a vote yesterday. It was passed by 72 to 19.

The bill forbids the selling of pools on races anywhere except at the track, and whether they shall be sold there is left to the option of county fair associations and like organizations which own tracks.

Columbus, O., March 10.—R. K. Hendrick of Cincinnati, representing Cox, had a conference today with Governor Herrick and Senator Dick on the county salary bill and Bronson primary election bill. The Hamilton county organization will not agree to the Bronson bill unless modified and he does not want any change in the primary election law.

at several adjacent places along the coast, but did not find a trace of the enemy."

FLEET OPENS FIRE.

London, March 10.—A Port Arthur dispatch states that the Japanese fleet which prepared last night to bombard the city, but was dispersed by a heavy gale reappeared shortly after midnight this morning and opened fire. The bombardment continued intermittently until 8 o'clock, when the squadron withdrew.

RUSSIA AND ENGLAND.

Berlin, March 10.—The Tageblatt today asserts that the conviction prevails in government circles in Russia that war with England will be the inevitable outcome of the war with Japan. Active preparations, says the paper, are proceeding on an elaborate scale, including measures for the defense of the Baltic coast. The minister of marine is reported to have ordered the inhabitants of the island of Kotlin in the gulf of Finland to leave their homes, which will be razed, as the government requires the entire island for fortification purposes.

Prince Uchomskii, the Czar's confidant, is quoted as stating that the Russian attack on India is imminent.

THE WAR SITUATION.

London, March 10.—The season of preparation for the Japanese land forces has according to reports received last night and today, passed, and active aggression on land has been inaugurated. During the fortnight or so that news from the seat of hostilities has been conspicuous mostly for the lack of anything definite contained therein, there have been many theories advanced as to the point at which the first land attack would come. These theories have for the most part, been far wide of the mark, for if reports received in Washington and by the Daily Telegraph from Tien Tsin are to be credited, the clash has come at Feng Wang-Cheng about fifty miles to the northwest of Antung and on the direct road to Liao-Yang not far distant from Mukden, where the Russians are now concentrating in force. Thus the Jap has again shown himself inscrutable and wily in his plans, and sudden and swift in his attacks.

The dispatches announcing this new move, while not confirmed, bear many earmarks of accuracy. It is said that the Japanese force which now occupies Feng Wang Cheng, landed at Taku Shan, on the Manchurian coast of Korea Bay and marched from the landing point by a straight road to their present point of occupancy. This could readily be done, as the Japs are known to have had forces of warships and transports in the neighborhood of the Elliott Islands from whence Taku Shang is easily accessible by water.

There are no Russian vessels in that neighborhood to obstruct any such move. The taking of Feng Wang Cheng, if it proves a fact that such has been accomplished, is a move brilliantly strategical. The city is situated on the Pekin road and on the direct route from Mukden to the Yalu. There are, in fact no other easily traversable roads between the two points. Thus, primarily, the Russian force on the Yalu would be effectively cut off from communication with the base. Again, the city is centrally located and of excellent value as a point from which to spread forces to further the isolation of the Russian forces. From here a force could be sent by the road already mentioned, near to Mukden where it could diverge and by a comparatively short march cut the railroad communication between Mukden and Nui Chwang, at the same time accomplishing the isolation of Port Arthur, which has, without doubt, been one of the main objects of the present campaign by sea as well as land.

Another force could march to the eastward, interfering with the advance from Vladivostok. One point in the occupation of Feng Wang Cheng as a base from which the forces could be sent is the fact that the Japanese forces in the Yellow sea are sufficiently strong to effectually protect transports bringing constant reinforcements to the force already landed.

The man who sighs always enjoys sorrow.

O H, let it be remembered When fair cities are enshrouded In the ashes of their glory. When the war is old in story. That the first news that we had, That the first news, good or bad, Came from Flagg, Mr. Flagg, Mr. Major General Flagg.

READ IT THROUGH

'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902 it is as true as any story of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melba Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

CAMELS

ARE COMING FROM ZANESVILLE OVER ELECTRIC LINE.

Following the Initiatory Work Next Monday Night a Fine Banquet Will Be Served.

In all probability the first actual business to be done by the Newark and Zanesville electric line will be done Monday evening, when two special cars are to be run from Zanesville to Newark to bring over the Zanesville lodge of Camels, who are to have charge of the initiatory work at the institution of the Newark lodge. General Manager Harrigan has stated that unless a heavy rain occurs the cars will be run according to the arrangements.

The members of the Newark lodge will hold their weekly meetings in the A. P. U. hall and the inaugural meeting will also be held there.

A street parade will be given Monday evening about 8 o'clock. It is expected that about 100 members of the Zanesville lodge will be present, and these, with the charter members of the Newark lodge, will be in the parade. Band music and a pyrotechnical display will be features of the parade.

Following the initiatory work a banquet will be served. A complete outfit of regalia has been secured and the new lodge will be fully equipped for its degree work. The lodge will be opened with about 120 members.

SAT DOWN

And Almost Immediately Died in His Chair After Speaking on the Harrod Indorsement.

New Orleans, March 10.—A dramatic scene to the sensational incident of New Orleans' opposition to the appointment of Major J. M. Harrod to the canal commission occurred yesterday in the directors' room of the New Orleans board of trade.

The board of directors, in session, were discussing a vigorous protest which had been sent them by members of the board of trade, who called in question the right of the directors to indorse, as they had recently done, Major Harrod. One of those who vigorously upheld the previous action of the directors was Colonel Volapio Wolfe, formerly president of the board of trade. He pointed out that the directors had acted entirely within their just powers in indorsing Major Harrod.

After speaking several minutes Colonel Wolfe took his seat. Almost immediately afterward his head sank on his bosom and before medical assistance could be summoned he died.

For a Cold

Take a small teaspoonful of Hinkley's Bone Liniment in half a tea cup of sweetened hot water just before retiring; bathe the chest freely with the Liniment at the same time. Repeat the treatment morning and evening until cured. One dose generally effects a cure, as this wonderful medicine acts like magic.

"Here you have my good word for Hinkley's Bone Liniment. I know its virtues. I have experienced its benefits and am familiar with its history. It was in use by my father before me and was his sovereign remedy for colds and cramps, for bruises and aches, and for the many pains that seem certain to reach us all at one time or another, and Hinkley's Bone Liniment seems about as certain to relieve as we are certain to get the pains."—Wm. B. Baum, Ex-Mayor of Saginaw, Mich.

It is a great comfort to be able to conquer our own ailments and thus avoid running for the doctor. Hinkley's Bone Liniment is a most reliable remedy for everything from a sprain to the severe agony of rheumatism. Applied externally it goes to the very bone and drives away the pain; taken internally it acts like magic in stilling pain and effecting a quick cure. Only 25 cents a bottle and every bottle is a genuine "family medicine chest." Can you be without a bottle? The druggist has it or can quickly get it, so insist on having Hinkley's Bone Liniment, the cure for every pain.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. The manager has also done an immense amount of grading, making an even surface on which he has sown grass seed. He hopes to have all improvements finished by the time the excursionists and pleasure parties take possession. The napha launches Ada and Ethel will be repaired and renovated ready for summer service. John Spurgeon, who has charge of the state's interest, is working in conjunction with the C. B. L. & N. making the improvements a success.

John Rosebrough and Henderson Jones went to Purity Friday to attend a shooting match. Both of these gentlemen were in one of the matches at that place some time ago and were on the winners' side.

There was to be a match Saturday of last week at Purity and a supper given by the opposite. Thus our boys eat at this supper at the other side's expense.

The weather for hunting ducks is ideal. The ice on the lake is broken up and hunters can pursue their game with a boat. Quite a number of ducks have been killed, but it is not late enough in the season for good shooting. As it is, fustling begins early and can be heard all day long.

THREE ARRESTS MADE

Newark Cigar Makers Secretary Receives Notice That Evidence Against Men at Red Lion, Penn.—A Newark Firm Interested.

Mr. Edward Tyhurst, secretary of the Newark Cigar Makers' Union, has just received a letter from the North District Union Label Association, Protective Association of McSherrytown, Pa., notifying him that partly through information given by the Newark Union, the association has succeeded in procuring evidence and placing under arrest N. G. Meads, H. L. Haines and Fred Holtzinger of Red Lion, Pa., of the notorious gang that have been shipping counterfeit label cigars all over the country. The warrants charge the accused with knowingly selling and ordering for sale boxes of cigars bearing counterfeit or imitation labels of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America. The men arrested are among the most prominent in the town of Red Lion, standing high in business, church and social circles. Some of the cigar boxes bearing the bogus labels were found as far west as San Francisco, Cal., while Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are said to be full of them. The men arrested are now under $5,000 bail to await trial the 4th of April 1904, at Gettysburg, Adams county, Pa. This arrest is said to be but the entering wedge for the uncovering of one of the biggest scandals in the Ninth Pennsylvania Revenue District, and that some of the most prominent cigar makers in York county, Pa., will be involved. For over a year or more revenue officers have been trying to locate bogus factories. Many cigars were stamped with numbers, which upon examination, showed that there were no such factories in existence.

It will be remembered that local union No. 179, about two months ago got out an injunction against Cherry & Company to restrain them from handling goods bearing the counterfeit label Cherry & Company claimed that they did not know the labels on the boxes were counterfeit, claiming that they had purchased the goods in good faith. By permission of the court, however, the counterfeit labels on the goods in their possession were destroyed.

DENISON

HAS THE LARGEST ATTENDANCE ON RECORD.

Contract Let for Putting the New Gymnasium Under Roof—New Department of History.

The new catalogue of Denison university shows a number of changes at this prosperous Ohio college, notably in the department of history. Professor Goodell, the new professor of history, is making a real success and the department is very popular. The attendance this year shows a marked increase and is the largest on record in that institution. The contract for putting the new gymnasium under roof has been let. The completion of this building will remove a serious handicap in securing young men as students.

One of the most curious facts in regard to snakes is that their eyes are never closed. Sleeping or waking, alive or dead, they are always wide open. This is because they have no eyelids. The eye is protected only by a strong scale, which is cast off every time the reptile changes its skin.

WIFE

Of the Reform Mayor Wants a Divorce on the Ground of Extreme Cruelty.

Van Wert, O., March 10.—Suit was filed late yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Ida Newton, wife of George W. Newton, the mayor of the city, and a prominent dealer in pianos and a promoter of factory schemes, asking divorce. Mrs. Newton charges in her official papers that her husband is guilty of extreme cruelty toward her, that he is so abusive that she cannot longer live with him, and also that he looks long and often upon the cup that cheers.

Newton was elected mayor of the city on a reform, or, rather, a factory movement. He led the working classes to the belief that he would make them all rich by bringing to the town manufacturing establishments of every description. The conservatives in the convention which nominated him were for another candidate, but they were outnumbered, and he won in both the convention and at the polls.

Newton is well known in almost every town of note in Ohio and Indiana, and has had much to do with the piano business of Chicago and a medicine business in Pittsburgh.

MUSKINGUM

BEGINNING FIRST OF APRIL WILL BE NAVIGATED.

Stern Wheel Steamer Will Ply Between Zanesville and Dresden—Others May Follow Soon.

Zanesville, O., March 10.—Beginning April 1, steamboat traffic will be resumed between Zanesville and Dresden after many years of disuse of the upper level of the Muskingum river. The Muskingum Valley Transportation company, composed of local and McConnellsville capitalists, will operate the line.

One boat, the Uarda, a stern wheeler, has been purchased and will be operated on daily trips. Should the trade justify it, another smaller boat will be introduced to the new run.

The local docks are being erected along the river bank opposite the Baltimore and Ohio and Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley railroad stations, and adjacent to the entire wholesale district.

The establishment of the line opens up river traffic between Dresden and Pittsburgh, Pa. Also, it is thought by the promoters of the scheme that as soon as a bona fide effort is made to establish steamboat trade on the upper Muskingum river the government will at once put that part of the river in the best possible condition.

HANNA MEN

ARE VERY MAD AT FORAKER AND DON'T CONCEAL IT.

They Say He Rushed the Postoffice Appointments and Took Advantage of Senator Dick's Absence.

Columbus, March 10.—Some fifty more Hanna men from various parts of the state were here yesterday. Most of them saw Governor Herrick and Senator Dick.

The men who conferred were most of them in no amiable frame of mind. They were as mad as the proverbial hornet. They were mad through and through. The Hanna men will fight. They would have fought some anyway. Now it is a fight to a finish.

Senator Dick came for a number of purposes. He stood shoulder to shoulder with the Governor in laboring to secure the passage of the Chapman bill through the House.

The chief purpose of his coming was to set at rest stories emanating from Washington that he and Senator Foraker would form a combination excluding Herrick.

Without waiting for the new Senator to take his seat, the Lima and Napoleon postoffices, the bone of contention between Hanna and Foraker for the past two years, were awarded to the senior Senator.

This affair disposed effectually of the Dick-Foraker deal.

It served though to stir up the feeling of the Hanna men to the boiling point. Their feeling is intense. They will carry the fight to the state convention.

Senator Dick naturally declined to talk, as he has not taken his seat in the senate. That he feels "sore," through and through, is known.

The new Senator, from a feeling of delicacy, desired to wait until 30 days after Hanna's death before taking the seat of his deceased chief. The credentials were presented, Dick's claim, so it could not be said the appointments were made before his credentials were received.

Quay, who has always been anti-Hanna, controls Senator Penrose, chairman of the postoffice committee. The committee rushed a report, and the Senate confirmed the Foraker appointments, supposing there was no opposition.

Radford K. Hyndick, representing George B. Cox, arrived yesterday afternoon and joined the conference. One of the conferees voiced more than his own opinion when he said: "It is necessary for us to demonstrate who represents the organization at Washington. The President appears to have some misconception about it."

The present Hanna program is to secure absolute control of the state convention.

Collector Ed Zarhorst of the port of Sandusky, who is expecting his political demise at any moment, was here yesterday to pick out the pallbearers.

Senator Dick remained in Columbus throughout the day.

A writer in the Paris Cosmos shows that although shorthand writing is supposed to be a modern invention it is in fact an ancient art. It is certain that it was known to the Greeks and Romans, and there are indications that it existed even among the Egyptians and Persians.
